Activity #1

On the board, overhead, or chart paper list the following Buzzword phrases. Ask the students to read the list and think about how all of the phrases are alike.

High five
Five card stud
Nine-to-five
Take five
Five o'clock shadow
Jackson Five
Five for Fighting
Hawaii Five-O
Five Alive
Five-dollar bill

The common feature of the above listing is they all include the word "five." Have the students work individually or with a partner to create definitions/clues for each of these phrases. Then working with another team, person, or as a whole class activity, take turns sharing a definition and having others make a buzzing sound when they know which phrase is being defined. The person with the correct answer can give the next definition.

Activity #2

Use sets of two cards that include a Buzzword phrase on one card and its definition/clue on the other card. Have enough cards for the entire class. Randomly distribute the cards and then direct the students to find the person with the card that goes with theirs. This is a good way to create teams or partners for other activities. You will find a set of possible game cards at the end of these plan ideas.

Activity #3

Begin your class period with a Buzzword. As students enter the class they look at the day's word and begin to make a list of words & phrases that use the word. They also create a definition/clue for each idea. You may use a word that is specific to the content of the day's lesson or choose from one of the words listed below. This is a great way to keep your students' minds active from the first moment of the class period. Take time to share a few definitions/clues before the day's lesson begins.

Some good Buzzwords to use: snow, day, wind, red, pig, chip, cheese, ice, eat, ball, lose, after, blue, over, cake, and corn.

Activity #4

Place your students into groups of 4 for this cooperative learning activity. Have each group member adopt one of the following roles: Reader, Writer, Speaker, or Buzzer. Each group will receive a Buzzword and list of clues (without answers). (You may give all groups the same list or different lists.)

The Reader will read the clues, and the Writer will record the group's answers. All members need to participate in solving the clues. When all clues are solved to the group's satisfaction, the Buzzer makes a buzzing sound. At this point all groups stop their work, turn over their papers, and listen to the responses of the group that buzzed. These responses will be read aloud by the Speaker. If the same lists are used, the groups may compare answers. If different lists are used, the responding group will get a new list if all the answers are acceptable. The other groups continue with their list until they, too, can buzz.

Establish a time allotment for this activity. The objective is for each group to complete as many lists as possible. Several Buzzwords and clue lists are included for possible use at the end of these plans.

Take-Home Activity

Use the Buzzwords and clue lists from Activity #4 as family involvement homework. Encourage the students to share the lists with their family to solve the clues. For extra fun suggest they work together to develop a family Buzzword and clue list that can be shared with the class.
